Dear Small School Teacher,

I hope by now you have heard about the new relationship between Hunter Systems and the NAD. We have, through the union directors, chosen Hunter Systems as the 'vendor of choice' for all school management software. There are three bundles of software available. Bundle one, GradeQuick, is packaged with this letter. It is designed for schools with one to three teachers and is a stand-alone version of GradeQuick. We have customized the CD to include the SDA Opening Report, Closing Report, Baptism Report and Emergency Contacts. We hope to increase the customization in the future.

The other two bundles are designed for larger schools. Bundle two is SchoolMinder with Billing and a network version of GradeQuick. Bundle three includes Bundle two and Accountraks, an accounting program.

As a small school, most of you will not need or want the extra features found in the other two bundles. We hope that you will give GradeQuick a try and then purchase it. We are offering a free thirty day trial. You can put live data into the program during that time, and if you purchase, will not lose that data. GradeQuick will also work with the ASM (Adventist School Management) Financial Package. This is available from your union office of education and has been extensively upgraded. It is designed as a financial package for small schools.

GradeQuick is the number one electronic grade book in the nation. We are pleased that Jackson Software, a sister company to Hunter Systems, has agreed to work with the NAD to provide you with quality grading software. We will continue to perfect the product and make it the best it can be for small schools. The cost for GradeQuick is $70 and the yearly support and upgrade fee is $35. I hope you will see that this is a great deal and join the multitude of Adventist schools across the division in using this product. It is our goal to be as consistent as we can and to support this product development in the future. If you have questions you can go to the Hunter Systems website at www.huntersystems.com/nad.html or use my email above.

Thank you for your ministry to the youth of our church. God bless!

Yours in Service,

Larry Blackmer,
Associate Director of Education
